COACHES, SPECIALISTS AND TEACHER LEADERS

Transform your campus by investing in teacher development through learning how to be an effective coach.

Coaches, curriculum specialists and teacher leaders enhance the capacity to support teachers in implementing evidence-based instructional practices to improve student learning outcomes, while fostering a culture of reflective practice and continuous professional growth.

Come engage in peer networking, problem-solving and practice with other professionals across the city. During this institute we will collectively share expertise in how to build the following skills:

Build Trust and Relationships

The institute will emphasize strategies for building trusting partnerships with teachers, establishing psychological safety, and encouraging professional growth.

Develop Observation and Feedback Skills

Participants will practice observation techniques and deliver feedback that aligns with teachers' professional growth goals.

Understand Effective Coaching Models

Coaches will explore various coaching models (e.g., Content Coaching, Student-Centered Coaching, and Instructional Coaching) and identify strategies personalized to their school context.

At the end of the institute, participants should feel equipped to support teachers in a manner that leads to improved instructional practices and a positive impact on student achievement.

This coaching experience has made me feel cared for and supported to be able to access and implement new knowledge, participate in deep reflection and learning, and to be comfortable taking risks as a new instructional coach."

A+ has assisted me with gaining the ability to build will, skill, knowledge, and capacity as a coach to then be able to provide the same for my teachers.

A+ has truly provided me with new, relevant and useful information about instructional coaching. I can truly say that whether I was the novice no information, or being pushed into another of level of learning beyond my comfort zone level, I have always felt supported in my levels of development.
